LEADERSHIP

Atsushi Yasuda 安田 厚

Representative Director / CEO
Head of Athlete Development Division

After graduating from university, he joined Sumitomo Mitsui Banking Corporation. Following six years in banking, he moved into the sports industry, working as an agent for Major League Baseball and professional baseball players in Tokyo and Los Angeles. Upon returning to Japan, he founded Baseball Communication Co., Ltd. (now GXA Co., Ltd.) and became its Representative Director.

Athlete Development Division

Provides training programs and development opportunities for junior high and high school athletes in baseball, basketball, and soccer. Through its sports schools and training facilities, GXA creates high-quality environments where young athletes can develop their skills and reach their full potential. The division also supports athletes pursuing new opportunities, including those aiming to be selected in the NPB Draft.

Yutaka Hirabayashi 平林 豊

Director / COO
Head of Overseas Operations / Head of Inbound Operations

After studying sports training in the United States, he worked as a dedicated trainer for a university baseball team and earned certification from the National Athletic Trainers' Association (NATA). He later worked at the Texas Rangers' spring training camp as an interpreter and trainer for Japanese players, and subsequently served in a similar role with the Kansas City Royals.

Overseas Operations Division

Provides comprehensive support for athletes, from high school students to university students, pursuing opportunities abroad. Services include language training, short- and long-term study abroad programs, travel arrangements, and ongoing support after arrival. Drawing on an extensive network across North America in education and sports, the division connects athletes with opportunities that support both their athletic and personal development.

Inbound Operations Division

Creates and manages sports experiences and study programs in Japan for overseas teams and students. Services range from program planning and operations to participant support, training arrangements, and introductions to schools and sports organizations. Leveraging GXA's extensive network across Japan, the division provides comprehensive support for inbound sports programs.

Hikaru Yamamoto 山本 光

Head of Domestic Sports Operations

After graduating from university, he gained experience in corporate sales at a trading company and a publicly listed manufacturer before moving into the sports industry. He now oversees sports tournaments, training camps, and events throughout Japan, working with local governments, companies, schools, and sports organizations.

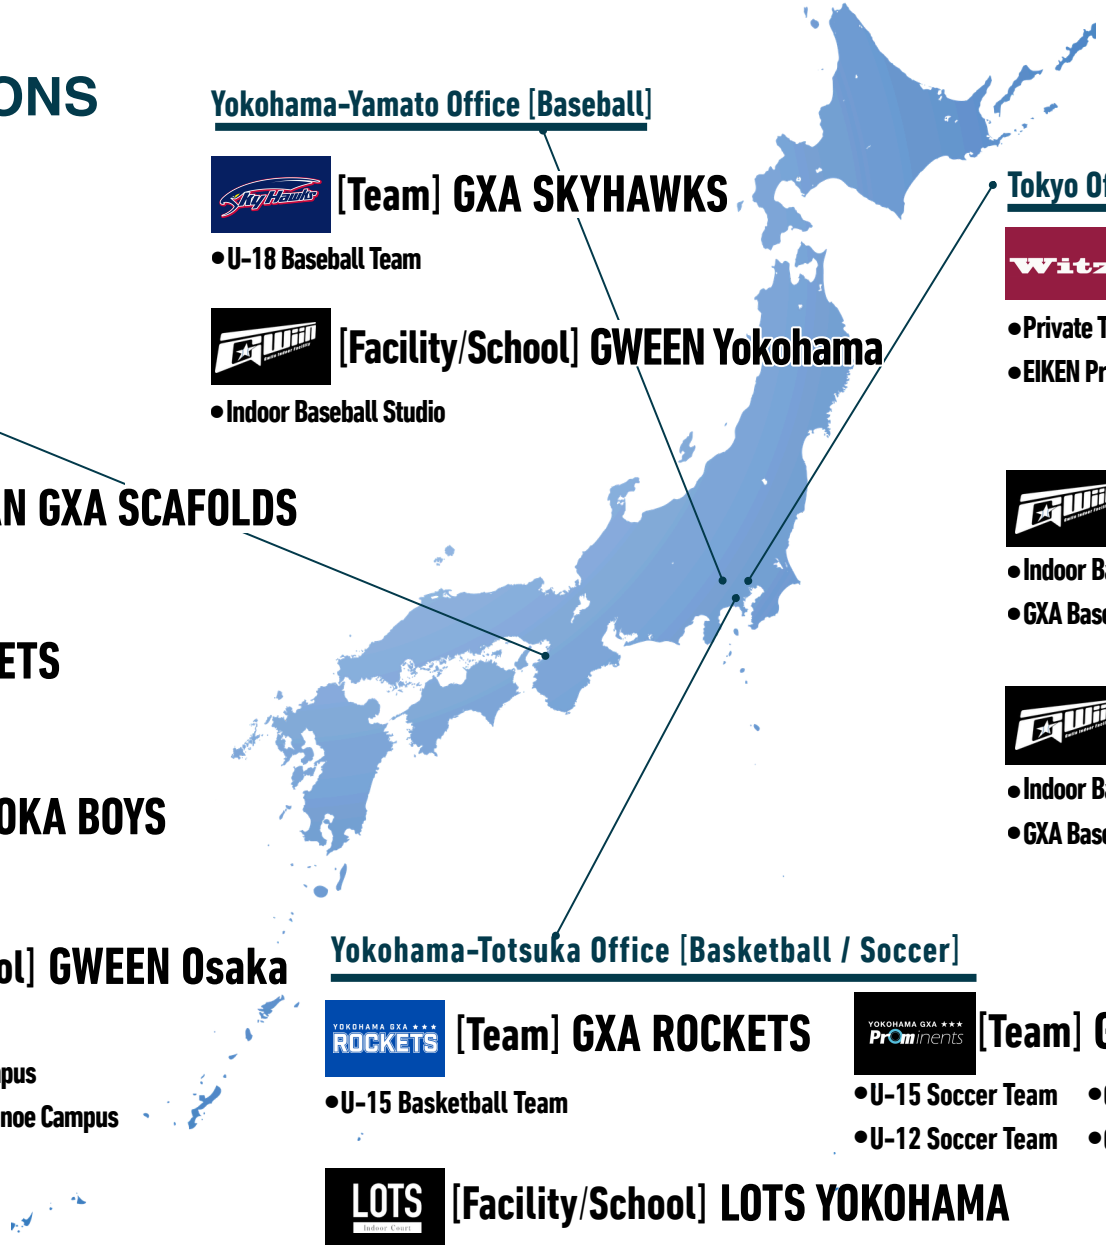

Domestic Sports Operations Division

Plans and manages a wide range of sports events and programs across Japan, including short-term clinics, training camps, and tournaments. Drawing on its expertise and extensive network, as well as partnerships with professional athletes and local communities, the division creates diverse opportunities for people to experience and participate in sport.

CREATING OPPORTUNITIES FOR ATHLETES FROM AROUND THE WORLD TO EXPERIENCE JAPAN THROUGH SPORTS

University of Wisconsin–Eau Claire Japan Cultural Program

As part of their training tour, participants visited Asakusa, Ryogoku, and Kyoto, with GXA arranging visits to Japanese universities and providing comprehensive support throughout the program. The experience combined sports, education, and cultural immersion, offering participants a deeper understanding of Japan.

SMAC Rugby Japan Tour

GXA organized a Japan tour for the U.S.-based SMAC Rugby Academy, including a match against the University of Tokyo Rugby Football Club. Through competition, cultural experiences, and interaction with local players, the program created meaningful opportunities for international exchange.

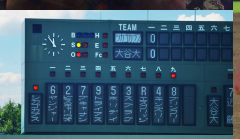

MLB Chicago Cubs Scout Team Japan Tour

GXA supports the Chicago Cubs Scout Team's annual Japan tour, providing comprehensive on-site coordination and arranging games with Japanese university teams, including Osaka Ohtani University. The program combines high-level baseball competition with opportunities to build relationships through sport.

Chinese Youth Baseball Teams Japan Tours

GXA organizes Japan tours for youth baseball teams from China, arranging games and exchanges with Japanese teams as well as cultural experiences. These programs give young athletes opportunities to compete, connect with their peers, and experience Japanese culture firsthand.

Creating International Exchange Through Sports and Culture

GXA welcomes sports teams and organizations from around the world, from U.S. universities and professional sports organizations to youth teams from across Asia. By combining competition, training, cultural experiences, and interaction with local communities, GXA creates meaningful opportunities for international exchange through sport.

SUPPORTING INTERNATIONAL STUDENT-ATHLETES IN JAPAN

Comprehensive Support for International Student-Athletes

GXA supports international student-athletes pursuing education and sports opportunities in Japan, from selecting schools and arranging accommodation to assisting with daily life and athletic activities. Drawing on our experience supporting Japanese students overseas, we provide comprehensive support to help international students adapt to life in Japan, pursue their athletic goals, and succeed academically.
